City Council tidies up finances ahead for strong start in 2023

Crystal Beach bond ordinance gets first reading

BY BOB DEMAREE

An end-of-the-year special meeting by Madison City Council on Friday wrapped up 2022 with a goal of a making fresh and strong start for 2023.

"This council meeting capped off an exciting year of investment in the people of Madison through parks, roads, public safety and neighborhood revitalization," said Madison Mayor Bob Courtney.

"We introduced a plan to keep the replacement of the iconic Crystal Beach Pool on track. In the next few months, we will bring a new grocery store to downtown and continue investing in our community, all while improving the financial strength of the city and holding property tax rates at flat."

The City Council heard the first reading of a bond ordinance on the Crystal Beach project to finance costs of construction and improvements to replace the pool. Courtney promised a more detailed presentation on the status of Crystal Beach at a future City Council meeting before the members vote on the second and third readings of the ordinance.

At the Dec. 19 meeting of the Board of Public Works and Safety an $8,030,000 bid was received from RL Turner Corporation that was about $2 million more than the $6 million engineers estimate to replace the iconic pool. The RL Turner bid was the only one received for the project and currently has been taken under advisement.

Alleged reckless driving leads to charges

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Alleged reckless and impaired operation of motor vehicles led to the arrest of three drivers by Madison Police last week and a fourth person on drug charges.

Patrolman Phillip Wimpee observed a vehicle exit a Circle K gas station onto Clifty Drive in a reckless manner at approximately 1:55 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 28. The vehicle temporarily lost traction and slide into the roadway. Shortly later, another Madison police officer observed the same vehicle traveling 80 mpg in a 45 mph zone and the vehicle was stopped.

Taxes fall, wages rise and jaywalking OK'd by new state laws

BY DAVID A. LIEB AND GEOFF MULVIHILL
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taxes will fall and minimum wages rise for residents in numerous states as a variety of new laws took effect Sunday that could impact people's finances and, in some cases, their personal liberties.

Some new laws could affect access to abortion. Others will ease restrictions on marijuana and concealed guns, or eliminate the need to pay to get out of jail.

Jaywalkers will get a reprieve in California, thanks to a new law prohibiting police from stopping pedestrians for traffic violations unless they are in immediate danger of being hit by a vehicle.

ABORTION

After the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the 1973 Roe v. Wade ruling in June, abortion access became a state issue. Laws in place in 13 states, most of them controlled by Republicans, ban abortion at all stages of pregnancy, with varying exceptions. Meanwhile, more liberal states have been extending abortion protections.

Laws taking effect in January are not wholesale policy changes but are intended to make abortion more accessible in California and New York. Abortion already is legal in those states through viability, which is about 24 weeks gestational age.

California will allow trained nurse practitioners, midwives and physician assistants to provide abortions without supervision from a physician. In New York, a law dealing with multiple facets of health care requires private insurers that cover births to also cover abortion services, without requiring co-payments or co-insurance.

A new Tennessee law, adopted in May, will bar dispensing abortion pills by mail or at pharmacies, instead requiring them to be given with a physician present. But advocates on both sides of the issue believe the effect will be minimal because a ban on abortions throughout pregnancy went into effect after the Supreme Court's ruling.

TAXES

Thanks to large budget surpluses, about two-thirds of the states approved permanent tax cuts or one-time rebates last year. Several of those will take effect in January.

Income tax cuts mean less money will be withheld from workers' paychecks in Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina and South Carolina. An Arizona income tax rate reduction to a flat 2.5% also will take effect in January, a year before originally scheduled because of strong state revenues.

Madison Township VFD orders new pumper truck

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Township Volunteer Fire Department has ordered a new pumper truck that will take two years to build.

The new pumper was ordered in late October and four members of the fire department's truck committee will be making a trip to the factory for a pre-bid meeting in June of 2023 to review specifications for the new engine with engineers who will oversee the project.

The new pumper will have six pre-connected hoses including a 5-inch supply hose that can lay in 500 feet and 3-inch hose at 1,000 feet from a fire hydrant. It will also carry 780 gallons of water, and will be capable of supplying water to larger hoses.

The truck will be built in Ocala, Florida, by E-One, the same company that built Madison Township's current pumper that is now 25 years old. Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said the current pumper still performs well but that in order to keep preferred insurance ratings — which in turn lowers insurance costs for property owners — it was time to move forward in purchasing the new pumper.

The cost of the new engine will be $622,000. The department got a boost on the down payment by the American Rescue Plan that were given to Madison Township Fire Department by County Commissioners and County Council but more money will be needed to pay off the purchase.

Donations to assist with the cost of the new engine can be sent to Madison Township Volunteer Fire Department, 3413 North Michigan Road, Madison, Indiana, 47250.

LAWS

Iowa will revamp its income tax brackets as a first step toward an eventual flat tax, and it will stop taxing retirement income.

Kansas will reduce its sales tax on groceries. Virginia will lower the tax on groceries and personal hygiene products. Colorado also will remove taxes from hygiene products, but will impose a 10-cent fee on plastic bags as a precursor to their elimination in 2024.

Other states are providing tax incentives for law-and-order professions. Rhode Island will exempt military pensions from tax. Georgia will offer a tax credit for donations to local law enforcement foundations.

But not all taxes will be going down. A voter-approved "millionaire tax" will take effect in Massachusetts, imposing a 4% surcharge on income of more than $1 million.

Wyoming is taking steps to collect taxes more quickly. Producers of coal, oil, gas and uranium will have to pay taxes monthly, instead of up to 18 months after extraction. The change comes after some counties had difficulty collecting millions of dollars owed by coal companies that went bankrupt.

WAGES

Minimum wage workers will get a pay raise in 23 states as a result of laws passed in previous years, some of which provide annual inflationary adjustments. The increases range from an extra 23 cents in Michigan to an additional $1.50 in Nebraska, where a ballot measure approved in November will raise the minimum wage from $8 to $9.50 an hour.

The gap continues to grow between the 20 states following the federal minimum wage of $7.25 an hour and the 30 others requiring more. The highest state minimum wage now will be $15.74 an hour in Washington — more than double the federal rate.

Another law taking effect with the new year will require employers in Washington to include salary and benefits information in job postings, rather than waiting until a job offer to reveal such information. Similar salary transparency laws are in place in half a dozen other states.

Workers in Colorado and Oregon will start seeing paycheck deductions in January to fund new paid family leave programs. But Oregon residents will have to wait until September and Colorado residents until 2024 before they can claim paid time off following a serious illness in their family, the arrival of new children or recovery from sexual assault, domestic violence, harassment or stalking.

Ohio will offer a new way for people to spend their paychecks. Sports betting will become legal, joining more than 30 states that have adopted similar laws since a 2018 U.S. Supreme Court ruling said it was OK.

CITY

"What this authorization does is it creates a placeholder so we can pursue financing in 2023 as we work with RL Turner and our other financial sources for the final design and construction costs of the pool," said Courtney. "So, there's no action to be taken now. We're not borrowing the money right now but in the next six weeks the plan is to bring that to conclusion by working with city council, the redevelopment authority and the redevelopment commission and other partners to finance, and proceed with the replacement of Crystal Beach swimming pool."

The remaining action by the Council at Friday's meeting included 2022 budget reductions, some typical year-end transfers and appropriations, and encumbrances for 2022 appropriations into the coming year, all approved unanimously by the City Council.

"Clerk-Treasurer Katie Rampy and Deputy Mayor Mindy McGee have done an excellent job implementing process improvements, reducing expenses and improving internal controls, while staffing up the new clerk-treasurer's office," Courtney said. "The city will enter 2023 in a strong liquidity position, a growing tax base, zero general obligation debt, and a pipeline of economic development projects that will be completed in 2023. I'm very proud of the direction we are heading."

McGee told the Council the changes are the "culmination of almost a full-year's work by a lot of people to get our finances and all of our reporting in conjunction with guidance from State Board of Accounts and Department of Local Government Finances on processes and getting us in a good place to start 2023.

"Everything that gets approved tonight will set up Katie Rampy, the clerk-treasurer, for a good, clean start for 2023 with good financial records and good reporting."

McGee had reported on the process at the council's Dec. 20 meeting detailing work that has occurred in the clerk-treasurer's office since Rampy assumed the position in February, following a resignation by Rick Berry that was followed by the departure of the rest of the clerk-treasurer staff. McGee said there was never any interruption of payroll for staff, and accounts receivable and accounts payable continued to be made as they should.

However, she said an audit of accounts and procedures was conducted and a consultant, Reedy Financial, was brought in to help along with the State Board of Accounts. McGee said that was when it was found that processes needed to change in the clerk-treasurer's office.

As part that, McGee said the council took action at recent meetings to return $1.1 million to the general fund reduce the overall 2022 budget by $1.1 million.

At Friday's meeting, the Council reduced appropriations from the 2022 budget by $100,000 from personal services and $159,128 from other services and charges for a total of $259,128.

Year-end fund transfers that came to approximately $70,000 were also approved in which funds were moved between categories with no budget increase.

Additionally, the council approved a funding encumbrance in which expenses for 2022 must still be paid in January of 2023. Rampy said, "This prevents funds from 2023 being spent on 2022 expenses, so that is the purpose of the encumbrance."

McGee said to her knowledge the encumbrance hasn't been done in the past but it will save $103,000 on the 2023 budget. "In the past when those bills come in January, we start paying them and when that has happened our appropriations are falling short." Because of not doing the encumbrance, McGee said the city would be paying 13 months on an item within a 12-month budget year.

Basically, it will be carrying over a 2022 appropriation that will be paid in 2023 without affecting the 2023 budget.

Additional appropriations were also approved with a good portion of those dealing with funds spent by the Aviation Board. McGee said, "Even though it says additional appropriation they were actually replacing funds that were already spent or spent but not appropriated." McGee pointed out half of the funds that had been spent from the airport's Non-Reverting Fund (NRO), but there also needed to be a step in which the city's Board of Public Works and Safety approves the claims for the airport. Additionally, she said the airport needs to be appropriate funds from its NRO. "They're learning the new process as well," said McGee, noting, "We're trying to get everybody so that they asking for appropriations of money that they need to spend" that's not part of the budget.

"This was a huge clean-up on their part, and it is simply to make sure that we are in compliance with DLGF and SBOA," said Rampy, noting once that's done it will close out 2022 for the city in a good way.

McGee said the process changes will over time ensure that the city has "enough reserve in our general fund that we're spending money that's actually sitting there, and we're not waiting on the tax draw. When the tax draw comes, it boosts up again so we never fall negative. That's what we're trying to get to," she said, noting that in recent years "we always fell negative, and we want to get away from that.

"Eventually, if you keep running into the negative, it's going to get bigger and bigger, and you're not going to be able to cover it," she said adding, "We don't want to even get close to that. It's going to take several years to get to where we never fall negative at all and we always have plenty of reserves in the general fund. It's a big thing."

In comments by the Courtney at the end of the meeting, he thanked the city's street department for its work during the recent winter storm over Christmas weekend. "They did a very, very good job in getting us through our first severe weather event."

He also praised the volunteers at the Salvation Army who served there to staff the warming shelter during the frigid temperatures.

CHARGES

Madison Sgt. Ronald Phillips conducted a traffic stop on one vehicle, driven by LeeAnn M. Nalley, 30 of Bedford, Kentucky. Phillips determined that Nalley was intoxicated, and arrested her for Operating a Vehicle While Intoxicated.

The second vehicle, operated by Elizabeth N. Martinez Perales, 29, Madison, was stopped by Sheriff's Deputy Devlin McMindes, who also determined that she was intoxicated and placed her under arrest for Operating a Vehicle While Intoxicated.

All three drivers were lodged in the Jefferson County Jail and all three have since been released on bond.

Elsewhere, at about 1:30 a.m. on Thursday Dec. 29, a traffic stop on Green Road led to the arrest of a Madison man who was driving while suspended on drug charges.

Madison Patrol officer Curtis Shelpman observed a Ford F150 pickup on Green Road with no working tail lights and conducted a traffic stop. The driver Ricky Lee Perry, 42, Madison, was determined to be Driving While Suspended, a Class A misdemeanor. While searching Perry during the stop, Shelpman also located a package containing drugs leading to a charge of Possession of Methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony.

Perry was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail.

Trump facing headwinds in White House run

BY JILL COLVIN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Donald Trump began 2022 on a high. Primary candidates were flocking to Florida to court the former president for a coveted endorsement. His rallies were drawing thousands. A bevy of investigations remained largely under the radar.

One year later, Trump is facing a very different reality.

He is mired in criminal investigations that could end with indictments. He has been blamed for Republicans' disappointing performance in the November elections. And while he is now a declared presidential candidate, the six weeks since he announced have been marked by self-inflicted crises. Trump has not held a single campaign event and he barely leaves the confines of his Mar-a-Lago club in Florida.

Instead of staving off challengers, his potential 2024 rivals appear ever more emboldened. Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis, fresh off a resounding reelection victory, increasingly is seen as Trump's most formidable competition.

Trump's subdued campaign announcement has left even former stalwarts wondering whether he is serious about another run for the White House.

"There was a movie called 'Failure to Launch.' I think that's what Donald Trump's process of running has been so far. He had the announcement, and he hasn't done anything to back it up since then," said Michael Biundo, a GOP operative who advised Trump's 2016 campaign but is steering clear this time.

"What campaign?" asked longtime GOP donor Dan Eberhart, who gave $100,000 to Trump's 2020 reelection effort but is now gravitating to DeSantis. "Trump's early launch seems more a reaction to DeSantis' overperformance and a legal strategy against prosecution than a political campaign."

Trump campaign officials insist they have been spending the weeks since his Nov. 15 announcement methodically building out a political operation. Trump, they note, announced just before the holiday season, when politicians typically lie low, and he did so unusually early, giving him plenty of time to ramp up.

"This is a marathon and our game plan is being implemented by design," said Trump spokesperson Steven Cheung.

"We're also assembling top-level teams in early voting states and expanding our massive data operation to ensure we dominate on all fronts," he said. "We are not going to play the media's game that tries to dictate how we campaign."

Trump also defended criticism of his campaign's slow start. "The Rallies will be bigger and better than ever (because our Country is going to Hell), but it's a little bit early, don't you think?" he wrote on his social media site.

While he has eschewed campaign events, the former president has nonetheless courted controversy.

There was his dinner with a white nationalist and the rapper formerly known as Kanye West, who has been spouting antisemitic tropes and conspiracies; his suggestions that parts of the Constitution be terminated to return him to power; and the "major announcement" that turned out to be the launch of $99 digital trading cards that do not benefit his campaign.

Since his announcement, he has also faced a series of legal losses, including the appointment of a special counsel to oversee the Justice Department's investigation into the presence of classified documents at Trump's Florida estate as well as key aspects of a separate inquiry involving Trump's efforts to overturn the results of the 2020 election. Trump's namesake company was convicted of tax fraud last month for helping executives dodge taxes on extravagant perks. In Georgia, a special grand jury appears to be wrapping up its work investigating his efforts to remain in power.

Trump's potential rivals have spent months laying the groundwork for their own campaigns, visiting early-voting states, speaking before conservative groups and building the kinds of relationships that could benefit them down the line.

Bob Vander Plaats, the president and CEO of The Family Leader, an Iowa-based conservative group, pointed to Republicans such as former Vice President Mike Pence, former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo and former U.N. Ambassador Nikki Haley, who have made repeat visits to the state.

"They've done the early work that is needed to be out in front of Iowans and they're very well received," he said, noting the period since Trump announced his candidacy has been "unusually quiet. In a lot of ways, it kind of feels like it's the announcement that didn't even happen or doesn't feel like it happened because there was no immediate buzz. ... I don't hear from people on he ground, 'I can't wait for Trump to run.' 'Did you hear Trump's announcement?' "

He called the poor performance of some Trump-backed candidates in the 2022 midterms a "caution flag" and said that even Trump supporters are open to backing someone else in the 2024 contest.

"For the president, I think he's definitely going to have to earn the nomination," he said.

Despite his vulnerabilities, Trump remains the early GOP front-runner. While he is seen as potentially beatable in a one-on-one matchup, he is likely to benefit from a crowded field that splits the anti-Trump votes, just as he did when he ran and won in 2016.

But Biundo, the former Trump campaign adviser, said that after watching likely candidates such as Pence pay visits to early voting states, he too, believes the field is wide open.

"I don't think Donald Trump has it locked up. I don't think Ron DeSantis has it locked up. I don't think anyone has it locked up," he said. "At this point, it's an open primary."

More than 60,000 view Benedict XVI's body at Vatican

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VATICAN CITY — Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI 's body, his head resting on a pair of crimson pillows, lay in state in St. Peter's Basilica on Monday as tens of thousands queued to pay tribute to the pontiff who shocked the world by retiring a decade ago.

On the eve of the first of three days of viewing, Italian security officials had said at least 25,000-30,000 people would come on Monday. But by the end of the first day's viewing, some 65,000 persons had passed by the bier, the Vatican said.

As daylight broke, 10 white-gloved Papal Gentlemen — lay assistants to pontiffs and papal households — carried the body on a cloth-covered wooden stretcher after its arrival at the basilica to its resting place in front of the main altar under Bernini's towering bronze canopy.

A Swiss Guard saluted as Benedict's body was brought in through a side door after it was transferred in a van from the chapel of the monastery grounds where the increasingly frail, 95-year-old former pontiff died on Saturday morning.

His longtime secretary, Archbishop Georg Gaenswein, and a handful of consecrated laywomen who served in Benedict's household, followed the van by foot for a few hundred yards in a silent procession toward the basilica. Some of the women stretched out a hand to touch the body with respect.

Before the rank-and-file faithful were allowed into the basilica, prayers were recited and the basilica's archpriest, Cardinal Mauro Gambetti, sprinkled holy water over the body, and a small cloud of incense was released near the bier. Benedict's hands were clasped, a rosary around his fingers.

Just after 9 a.m. (0800 GMT), the doors of the basilica were swung open so the public, some of whom had waited for hours in the pre-dawn damp, could pay their respects to the late pontiff, who retired from the papacy in 2013 — the first pope to do so in 600 years.

Faithful and curious, the public strode briskly up the center aisle to pass by the bier with its cloth draping after waiting in a line that by midmorning snaked around St. Peter's Square.

Benedict's body was dressed with a miter, the peaked headgear of a bishop, and a red cloak.

Filippo Tuccio, 35, said he came from Venice on an overnight train to view Benedict's body.

"I wanted to pay homage to Benedict because he had a key role in my life and my education," Tuccio said.

"When I was young I participated in World Youth Days, he said, referring to the jamborees of young faithful held periodically and attended by pontiffs. Tuccio added that he had studied theology, and "his pontificate accompanied me during my university years."

MADISON COURIER FOOTBALL PLAYER OF THE YEAR: ZAYN SATCHWELL

Satchwell carries Carroll to outstanding season

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Through three games, Carroll County's offense was stagnant. The Panthers had scored a total of just 20 points in three losses and little seemed to be going right.

But one small move by first-year coach Lonnie Oldham proved to be the difference in Carroll's season. Rather than putting a player in the starting lineup, he took one out.

"We don't huddle (on offense) and it was taking a toll on him," Oldham said. "It took us probably midseason when we really started taking him out on defense. And when we did that, his offense production went up because he was a little bit more fresh."

"He" was junior running back Zayn Satchwell, who was one of the Panthers best defenders early in the season. But once he was put into a position where he could concentrate on offense, Satchwell — and Carroll County — were off to the races.

Satchwell finished the season with an impressive 1,360 yards from scrimmage and 23 touchdowns and is this year's Madison Courier Football Player of the Year.

As Satchwell went, so went the Panthers. While Oldham installed a pass-first offense upon arriving in Carrollton, it was quickly apparent that the athletic and lanky junior running back was going to be his team's best offensive option.

"When you give the ball to Zayn, whether there's a hole there or not, he's gonna make a play and that's what a playmaker does," Oldham said. "I would say most of his yards were after contact. He would break two or three tackles and then break out and would just lay on the gas."

Satchwell had 20 tackles and an interception on defense in his first three games of the season but on offense he totaled only 128 yards on the ground as the Panthers lost games to North Oldham, Henry County and Madison.

But in game four against Grant County, Satchwell was unleashed and he exploded for 235 yards rushing and four touchdowns as Carroll rolled to its first win of the season, 49-12.

That game began a run in which the Panthers won seven of eight games and claimed the No. 2 seed in the district playoffs. Only a narrow 28-26 loss to Walton-Verona in Week 7 kept Carroll from potentially making a deep run to the state quarterfinals.

That 2-point loss left Carroll as the No. 2 seed. The Panthers throttled Covington Holy Cross 35-6 in the opening round but then ran into perennial power Beechwood, which easily handled Carroll in the second round, 62-14, en route to its third-straight Class 2A state championship.

Satchwell finished the season with 1,187 yards rushing and 20 touchdowns and also caught 15 receptions for 173 yards and three scores. His 23 touchdowns easily led the area and he was also named all-North Central Kentucky Conference and was the Class 2A District 5 Player of the Year by district coaches.

"One of the things that kept me going and pushing me forward was knowing that my team needed me for success," Satchwell said. "We just had to make the plays as a team. Not only me, but you know, all the other guys had to play their part as well. But I didn't want to let my team down."

Satchwell didn't exactly come out of nowhere. As a sophomore, he led the Panthers in rushing with 846 yards and scored 10 touchdowns, but he was part of a crowded backfield for Carroll that saw three different players rush for at least 450 yards on the season.

He knew coming into his junior season that he was the top returner and he was determined to become a leader, both on and off the field.

"We had a couple of seniors last year that played a really big part. And our offensive schemes changed, but I knew I had to fill a role," Satchwell said. "I just kept telling myself that I have to do it, there ain't no other excuses. If we want to win, I gotta score and I have to help my teammates as well. I have to be the best player that I can possibly be, not just on the field but in the classroom and in the weight room."

For Oldham, that determination and attitude are the biggest reasons Satchwell has been as successful as he has been.

"The best thing about Zayn is he's a team player and when I say a team player, I mean it. There was one game where we're up big early in the fourth quarter and he told me to put (backup) Nate (Crawford) in because he needs to run the ball," Oldham said. "He didn't want to pad his stats, he wanted to get the other guys in the game. That's the kind of guy you want on your team."

Satchwell also plays baseball and he appeared in 24 games for Carroll County last year, but football is his first love. He has already began preparing for the 2023 season and is looking forward to leading the Panthers deeper into the postseason and preparing for what he hopes will be a college career playing the sport that he loves.

"He's upbeat. He's at practice every day. He's happy. He wants to be there. He's a football player. And there's not many football players in high school that want to play football all the time. But that's what this guy is. And that's

Tshiebwe, Toppin lead No. 19 Kentucky past rival Louisville

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Oscar Tshiebwe had 24 points and 14 rebounds, Jacob Toppin added a career-high 24 points and No. 19 Kentucky shot a season-best 60% to dominate rival Louisville 86-63 on Saturday.

The battle for Bluegrass bragging rights resumed after a one-year pause with the Wildcats (9-4) jumping out quickly and surviving a couple of rallies by the Cardinals (2-12). Kentucky sorely needed a rebound game after dropping two of three, including its Southeastern Conference opener on Wednesday at Missouri, and responded by making nine of its first 12 attempts and finishing 33 of 55 from the floor.

Pretty impressive improvement for a team that entered the contest shooting 46% and just under 40% from behind the arc. The Wildcats outscored Louisville 46-34 in the paint and 20-12 on second chances, aggression that had been lacking in some of their bigger games.

Toppin, who went scoreless in 12 ½ minutes off the bench at Missouri, started and made 10 of 15 with seven rebounds. The senior forward had 15 points by halftime and surpassed his previous scoring high of 20 midway through the second half.

"We played team basketball and whoever is open is going to shoot the ball," Toppin said. "Obviously, my teammates got into a rhythm of finding me in the middle of the floor and I just executed. My teammates found me, and thankful to them for that."

Tshiebwe added, "That's the Jacob we know."

Tshiebwe had his seventh double-double this season by halftime and came up one rebound shy of his fourth 20/15 effort this season. Last year's consensus national player of the year was 10 of 13 shooting to offset missing 5 of 9 free throws.

Cason Wallace added 17 points on 6-of-8 shooting.

El Ellis had 23 points for Louisville, which dropped its third in a row and failed to give first-year coach Kenny Payne a victory against the team he worked for 10 years as an assistant under John Calipari.

But it was a homecoming nonetheless. Payne and Calipari hugged and smiled at midcourt before player introductions. More hugs followed as Payne went down the Wildcats bench to greet other

Shawe girls roll over Cannelton for 9th win

BY JORDAN BEAR

CANNELTON — Despite sitting idle for more than two weeks, Shawe girls basketball didn't show any signs of rust while cruising to a 57-33 win at Cannelton on Friday.

The Hilltoppers jumped out to a 29-4 lead after the first quarter and the outcome was never in doubt as they picked up their ninth win of the season to match their win total for all of last season.

For Shawe coach Drew Kring, the game was a chance to get players who normally don't get a ton of time on the court into the game, which is exactly what happened after the opening quarter.

"The score doesn't really concern me; we got the win and that's great," Kring said. "The thing I really wanted was to get the starters out there for a few minutes but then I really wanted to get people like Jenna Flint, Berkely Neuman and Katie Jacobs significant time and they did that. So all-in-all, I'm pleased with how the game went."

Flint, only a freshman, had easily the best game of her short career with four points, 10 rebounds, and two assists. Jacobs, a senior, finished with four points and two rebounds. Kring was very pleased with their play.

"The starters obviously get most of the minutes so I'm glad that the three players off the bench got significant time," Kring said. "That's what will help us down the road, especially as we finish out conference play and get ready for the postseason."

Ava Turner and Audrey Barron both scored 15 points to lead Shawe while freshman Hunter Mote had a great game coming back from injury with 13 points, six rebounds, four assists and three steals.

Kendall Hale scored 31 of Cannelton's 33 points in the game.

Shawe improves to 9-5 overall on the season and will hit the road on Thursday to take on Rock Creek. The Hilltoppers will return home on Friday night to face Oldenburg as part of a girls-boys doubleheader.

Shawe boys back to .500 after rout of Cannelton

BY JORDAN BEAR

CANNELTON — Shawe boys basketball coach Dan Hambrick wanted his team to close out 2022 in a big way and they did just that with a dominant 63-26 victory at Cannelton on Friday.

Just as the Hilltopper girls had done in the game before, Shawe left no doubt on the outcome by jumping out to a 20-8 lead after the first quarter and extending that to 40-12 at halftime before cruising the rest of the way.

"I was super pleased with the effort today, and how we came out and executed," Hambrick said. "It's a long bus ride to Cannelton and those rides can sometimes be tough but I'm glad that we came out and put the game in control early."

Hambrick was thrilled that his team is back at .500 record at 5-5 to carry that momentum into the second half of the season. He was also happy to see everyone getting playing time and how many players were able to score.

"Everyone got significant time today and that's always great," Hambrick said. "We evened up our record at 5-5 to go into the New Year and that's huge. It's great momentum for us, plus eight out of the 10 players scored. I'm overall really pleased with the trip and I'm ready for the last half of the season."

Shawe was led by Philip Kahn and Wyatt Nichter with 16 points each. Sam Fewell had eight points while Jacob Hertz, Eric Liu and Eli Turner each scored six.

Cannelton was led by Logan Larson's game-high 22 points.

The Hilltoppers return to action on Tuesday when they travel to Borden before returning home Friday to face Oldenburg Academy as part of a girls-boys doubleheader assistants and players and was applauded by the expectedly blue-clad crowd of 20,934 at Rupp Arena.

"I appreciate it," Payne said. "I respect Kentucky and I loved it here. To have them welcome me was great, but — I've said this over and over again — this isn't about me. This is about these young men."

Kentucky took off from there, though Louisville mounted a small run to get within 45-37 with 18:32 remaining in the game. That was the closest the Cardinals got as the Wildcats led by 27 with just over three minutes left.

"You have to be able to sustain their runs and lock in and focus to go on a run of your own," Ellis said. "When times get tough, we have to come together more and continue to fight."

PEP TALK

Toppin entered the game shooting 5 of 20 over his previous four contests but was encouraged by one-on-one discussions with Calipari before and after the Missouri loss. Those talks included some hugs and assurance that he would start, which he did ahead of Lance Ware.

"I had a lot of support from my teammates and my coaching staff and it just feels good to get back to my old self mentally and physically," Toppin said.

THE BIG PICTURE

Louisville: The Cardinals shot 47% and seemed intent on making it a game early in the second half. But they couldn't slow Toppin or Tshiebwe, and things quickly slipped away in the final 10 minutes. They committed 15 turnovers that led to 19 Kentucky points and were outrebounded 33-20.

"I was disappointed in our lack of physicality," Payne said. "We worked the last three days on rebounding. At times it looked like he reacted twice before we reacted once."

Kentucky: With nowhere to go but up after Missouri overwhelmed them, the Wildcats started fast and hot from the field and stayed on the gas. Toppin's performance was long overdue and complemented Tshiebwe well. Free throws remain a concern as they made 16 of 25.

CORRECTION

A Trimble County boys basketball story in Saturday's edition contained an error in the Raiders championship win at the Ray Zellar Classic at Whitefield Academy. Ethan Horn, who 23 points each in two tourney games, was named MVP while James Thomas Wilcoxson, who scored a total of 41 points in two games, and Horn were both named to the all-tournament team along with Jerry Nevils.

No. 24 Arkansas women get rare win at Kentucky 71-50

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Erynn Barnum and Saylor Poffenbarger scored 17 points apiece and No. 24 Arkansas ended a three-game losing streak with a rare win at Kentucky, topping the Wildcats 71-50 on Sunday.

Makayla Daniels added 11 points for the Razorbacks (14-3, 1-1 Southeastern Conference), who are now 4-13 in Lexington, last winning there in 2003.

Barnum was 7-of-11 shooting, grabbed eight rebounds, dished a career-high seven assists and had three blocks for Arkansas, which lost to ranked Oregon and LSU after a win over No. 16 Creighton had them at 13-0 to start the season.

Blair Green scored 14 to lead the Wildcats (8-6, 0-2) and Jada Walker added 13. Maddie Scherr had 10 rebounds and eight points.

Poffenbarger's three-point play kicked off a 10-0 run to close the first quarter for a 16-8 Arkansas lead and Barnum scored the first six points of the second quarter as the Razorbacks took a 24-19 lead into intermission.

Arkansas put together an 18-2 run in the third quarter, increasing their lead to 52-25 when Daniels nailed her third triple of the period.

Kentucky was 2 of 14 from 3-point range and shot 26% overall. The Wildcats also had 23 turnovers that the Razorbacks turned into 33 points.

Arkansas is home against Florida on Thursday, while Kentucky goes to Georgia.

Turner, Haliburton help Pacers beat Clippers

BY CHRIS GOFF
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Myles Turner scored 34 points, Tyrese Haliburton had 24 points and 10 assists, including 14 points in the final four minutes, and the Indiana Pacers held on for a 131-130 win over Paul George and the Los Angeles Clippers on Saturday.

George scored 45 points, the most by a Clippers player this season, in his return to Indianapolis and Kawhi Leonard had 24 points, seven assists and five rebounds. Leonard missed a 3-pointer from the right wing that would have tied the game at 130. Haliburton then made a free throw with 5.3 seconds left to push Indiana's lead to 131-127 before George hit a 3 as time expired.

"We had to put together a monster game to beat them, and we did," Indiana coach Rick Carlisle said. "Myles Turner was spectacular. Tyrese's fourth quarter was monster. Made just about every play you could imagine. Really just breathtaking stuff to watch."

Buddy Hield finished with 18 points for Indiana, while Aaron Nesmith had 16 and Bennedict Mathurin 15 off the bench. The Pacers shot 52% from the field. The Clippers finished at 54% but committed 16 turnovers.

"We're still aren't doing a great job of forcing teams baseline and forcing them out of the middle," George said. "We're giving up too many middle drives."

Haliburton, who also had seven rebounds and four steals, starred in a tense, back-and-forth fourth quarter. Los Angeles led by six with 5:27 to go, but, beginning with two free throws at the 3:47 mark, Haliburton reeled off a 13-point flurry punctuated by two free throws for a 128-125 lead with 29 seconds remaining.

"There's a lot of trust in me in this organization," Haliburton said. "We're learning how to finish games. We've got a lot of firepower. This is what we do. They picked us last in the East. We're coming out here and proving people wrong."

George made two foul shots to get Los Angeles back within one with 20 seconds left, but the Clippers let nearly eight seconds run off the clock before fouling Turner on Indiana's ensuing possession. Turner hit two free throws to restore a three-point advantage for the Pacers, who have won five of their last six.

Turner's hook shot early in the third quarter sent the Pacers ahead by 14, the largest advantage by either side. The Clippers responded by scoring on 11 of their next 13 possessions, a stretch capped by George's 3 to tie it at 86 with 3:54 remaining in the quarter. The score remained tied, at 93, entering the fourth.

TIP-INS

Clippers: The 32-year-old George, who played for Indiana the first seven seasons of his career, was booed lustily in pregame introductions. The Pacers traded George to Oklahoma City in 2017 after he informed them that he planned to leave once he was eligible for free agency in 2018. … Marcus Morris Sr. scored 15 points and Reggie Jackson 13.

Pacers: On the strength of five 3-pointers, Indiana led 32-22 at the end of the first quarter to continue a trend of better starts. It marked the sixth time in the Pacers' last nine games that they led entering the second quarter. … After being outrebounded 62-39 in their 114-100 loss to the Clippers on Nov. 27, the Pacers won the battle of the boards 44-40.

Struggling survivor avoids reflection

Dear Amy — I read your column every day. There are times where I wonder how to approach a situation and try to imagine what your advice would be.

However, there's one internal conflict I have where I feel at a complete loss.

I cannot bring myself to look in a mirror or at any kind of reflection without feeling an immense amount of shame and disappointment. I avoid cameras at all costs.

Growing up, I used to love dressing up and taking photos. I participated in cosplay for years and paid for photoshoots.

I was in a serious relationship for over a decade, and my partner cheated on me.

Following a grueling break-up, I gained almost 100 pounds and committed myself to an in-patient mental hospital, then outpatient for over a year.

I just want to be satisfied with my own face and in my own skin. I don't know how to overcome the thought that I'll always be someone to cheat on.

I'd really appreciate your thoughts. — Shattered

AMY DICKINSON ASK AMY

Dear Shattered — I see your issue as occurring across two tracks. First of all, the visage you should want to avoid is the rat who cheated on you.

Instead, you have assumed personal responsibility for the wrong that was done to you, and have turned the anger onto yourself.

A person who has been cheated on will often feel unworthy. But the process of recovering will be to transfer your harsher feelings away from yourself, and point your anger toward the unethical person who wronged you.

Husband's hoarding makes walls close in

Dear Amy — My husband and I — now empty-nesters — live alone in a large four-bedroom house.

My husband won't throw anything away and forbids me from disposing of his possessions, even if they are broken or obviously will never be used again.

He buys anything that he considers a bargain, whereas I have become offended by over-consumption.

I've spent hundreds of hours trying to organize, inventory, box things, etc. If I didn't spend that time, the house would be a junkyard, and I resent having to spend my time this way. As I look around, inside and outside the house, I feel rage.

AMY DICKINSON ASK AMY

Although I have three rooms I keep "sacrosanct" — no clutter allowed — on the whole, I feel like the walls are closing in.

We've been married for many years, and I guess this is a petty thing, but it bothers me more and more. At this point I almost feel like it's a deal breaker.

What should I do? — Desperate Housewife

Dear Desperate — In my view, your husband exhibits signs of having a hoarding disorder. This is a persistent, compulsive, and distressing condition where people experience extreme anxiety when faced with the prospect of getting rid of anything — even when the item is broken, useless, or part of a huge collection. When combined with the compulsion to acquire more possessions, the pile grows and — yes — the walls start closing in.

Your husband needs professional help and mental health treatment.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — If you've chosen goals that require skills and knowledge you lack, it's time to add some new tools to your tool belt or find someone to delegate to. Your work or career can benefit from wise policies and helpful connections.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Your inner fire hasn't gone out but could be just simmering right now. Your passion and your determination to succeed can be rekindled with some new inspiration. Embrace original concepts and technologies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Make optimism a priority. Squeeze out all the juicy goodness from a loved one's or partner's dynamic ideas. You might be temporarily pessimistic about your own career prospects but you can work toward reaching jointly shared goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Some people might call it writer's block. You may find it more difficult to communicate with loved ones but can be inspired by their performance. It is time to follow someone else's stellar example.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Someone's hidden agenda could be obvious to your sharp eyes — find a generous and magnanimous way to deal with an obvious attempt to block your path. It's time to act if the writing is clearly on the wall.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Independent thinking and original ideas could be rewarded; you'll have more fun and satisfaction if you allow yourself some creative activities. When negotiating for improved conditions, be sure that everyone benefits equally.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Practice patience; for now, duty must come before pleasure. A partner or loved one's attention waver a bit in the face of opportunity, but devotion should remain steadfast. Avoid an unnecessary misunderstanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — You may be prepared to make a change for the better, so consider embracing something new and different that comes your way. If a loved one or partner receives extra publicity, it can serve your mutual interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Consider their history when you are assessing whether someone might be worthy of your trust. Have confidence in your own good judgment and support a loved one who may have doubts or concerns.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Consider the relative value of protecting a secret versus the freedom you feel when you are fully transparent.. When you're 100% honest, you have nothing to fear. Share new interests or creative projects with loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Sometimes, the best organizational setup and most industrious application of efforts can come out of sheer necessity. Be sure to handle any and all nagging details, then find time to enjoy a happy family occasion.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Make sure your empathy is more than just optics, do your best to understand someone's situation and then do what you can to help. Make sure you combine your strength with gentle treatment of yourself and others.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You might appreciate someone's reluctance when you remember how sailing in uncharted waters or trying something untested can feel. Let people become familiar with surroundings before you push too hard.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — You may not feel you can stop once a new interest captures your heart. Find a balance if you have duties that need to be completed. Persistence and determination are two main keys to making things happen.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Stick to the facts and rely on verifiable information rather than giving in to unfounded doubts and fears. A loved one or trusted partner can alert you to limitless possibilities and help you achieve your goals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Remember your long-term goals and ignore passing whims. It's long past time for self-care if your inner child is threatening a temper tantrum. A loved one may receive more attention than you but does not love you any less.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Baby steps are often best. With your open mind, you may be tempted to experiment with something new. While you take your time to evaluate the interesting and novel, keep your feet on solid and trusted ground.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Take charge of your own destiny and cross off some adventures. Get ahead in the material world by listening to sound advice and exercising your wisdom. Widen your horizons by embracing something interesting and profound.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — You may be willing to put your money on the line. Keep one ear to the ground and you can form useful contacts while making the social rounds. Romance may be the last thing on your mind when you meet a charming someone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Accept shifting conditions and don't attack the mirror. A family member may have the insight and experience to see your situation with great clarity. Discuss any impending changes with calm equanimity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — You may have incredible charisma and might be feeling lucky. However, do not be surprised if someone opposes your desires or challenges your ideas. This can be a good time to make necessary financial changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Suit up. Your determination to succeed can propel you to success when you launch new projects and plans. Your softer side knows how to make gatherings with family or friends unique, fun and fulfilling.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Remain gentle and avoid playing rough, getting along with other people should be a priority now. Learn lots from your own mistakes and instead of criticizing others' mistakes, hit it out of the park by learning from those, too.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Combine emotional intelligence with a clear and reasoned view of hard facts. Honor your promises and you should find that your doubts disappear. This is a good time to make decisions about possessions and finances.

Giants rout Colts, reach playoffs for 1st time since 2016

BY TOM CANAVAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The Gatorade bath for the head coach returned. Fans counted down the final seconds and there were fireworks above MetLife Stadium at the final tick. Tears were shed in the locker room.

Yes, the New York Giants are finally back in the playoffs.

Daniel Jones threw two touchdown passes and ran for two more and the Giants routed the Indianapolis Colts 38-10 Sunday to return to the postseason for the first time since 2016.

"It's a beautiful thing and I'll be honest," said running back Saquon Barkley who carried the team to a 6-2 start. "No one outside the men and women in that facility gave us a chance."

Coming into the season the Giants were among the least likely teams to make the postseason.

They had five straight losing seasons, including a four-win season in 2021 that led to the firing of coach Joe Judge and general manager Dave Gettleman.

Buffalo assistant Joe Schoen was hired as general manager and he chose Bills offensive coordinator Brian Daboll to be the coach, his first head coaching job.

Taking a young team, Daboll got them to focus one week at a time and to believe in themselves. It paid off as the Giants (9-6-1) overcame injuries and a 2-4-1 slide in November and early December to become the third NFC East team to qualify for the postseason, joining Philadelphia and Dallas.

Daboll was doused with Gatorade after the game, a Giants' tradition first associated with Bill Parcells in the 1980s.

"It was sticky," the low-key Daboll said, noting the team was given the next two days off by Jones when he broke down things after the game.

Players said the locker room was full of joy.

"Loud, dancing, laughing, so many emotions," defensive tackle Dexter Lawrence said. "It's all of the signs of excitement. We worked hard, starting in the spring with these guys with the new coaching staff, and it's all playing out."

Landon Collins, one of two players from the '16 team, broke the game open late in the second quarter with a 52-yard pick-6 as the Giants (9-6-1) put a final stamp on a surprising playoff run.

The reeling Colts (4-11-1) lost their sixth straight game, and ninth in 10.

"We still got one more week. I've got to keep these guys playing good football for the last week, and try to get a win and finish this season off in the right way," Colts interim head coach Jeff Saturday said.

The Giants looked liked the high-powered Bills where Schoen and Daboll were previously.

Their point total was a season high and it was the first time the team scored at least 30 points since getting 34 in a 37-34 loss to Dallas on Oct. 11, 2020.

Jones, who saw the team not pick up the fifth-year option on his rookie contract when he was the No. 6 overall pick in 2019, played like Bills star Josh Allen.

The 25-year-old threw touchdown passes of 6 yards to Richie James and Isaiah Hodgins in the first half and scored on a run of 18 and 10 yards in the second half. He finished 19 of 24 for 177 yards and had 11 rushes for 91 yards.

With the crowd shouting his name, Jones left the field to a standing ovation with about 7:30 remaining in the game.

"I mean it's just exciting. I think, like I said, we've been through some tough times and to be on this side of it is a lot of fun," Jones said.

The only negative for New York was seeing rookie Kayvon Thibodeaux doing snow angels after sacking and injuring Colts quarterback Nick Foles late in the second quarter. Foles, who fell on the ball according to Saturday, walked off the field, but he was taken to the locker room on a cart. He did not return.

Thibodeaux said he was celebrating and didn't realize Foles was hurt, adding he hopes he heals quickly.

Sam Ehlinger played the second half and threw his first NFL TD pass, a 6-yarder to Michael Pittman.

NOTES: Indianapolis was 3 of 12 on third down. The Colts finished with 252 yards and had seven penalties for 60 yards. ... Colts linebacker Bobby Okereke had a season-high 17 tackles. ... Barkley finished with 58 yards rushing and has 1,312 yards for the season, breaking his career high of 1,307 set in 2018. ... Jones has 708 yards rushing, extending his team record for a quarterback. ... Collins' pick-6 was his second of his career. He had one against the Rams in 2016 in London.

INJURIES

UP NEXT

Colts: Host Houston on Sunday in the regular-season finale.

Giants: Travel down the New Jersey Turnpike to face the Eagles in Philadelphia.

Brazilians mourn Pelé at the stadium where he got his start

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SANTOS, Brazil — Thousands of mourners, including high school students and supreme court justices, began filing past the body of Pelé on Monday on the century-old field where he made his hometown team one of Brazil's best.

The soccer great died on Thursday after a battle with cancer. The only player ever to win three World Cups was 82.

Pelé's coffin, draped in the flags of Brazil and the Santos FC football club, was placed on the midfield area of Vila Belmiro, the stadium outside Sao Paulo that was his home for most of his career. A Catholic Mass will be celebrated there Tuesday morning before his burial at a nearby cemetery. Brazil's newly inaugurated President Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva will come to Vila Belmiro shortly before Pelé's coffin is removed from the stadium.

The storied 16,000-seat stadium was surrounded by mourning fans, and covered with Pelé-themed decorations inside.

Fans coming out of the stadium said they'd waited three hours in line, standing under a blazing sun.

Forty-five years after Pelé played his last game, he's still a central part of Brazil's national story.

why he's the guy he is, because he loves football," Oldham said. "And he loves the game. He loves to play the game and you can see that. And the game's got a chance to take him some places where he's never dreamed."

"I just got to keep my head up. I know I got to put the work in and go beyond everything I've done this year," Satchwell said. "I know I need to exceed them on a whole other level for my senior year if I want to go to college and play in college. And that's what I want to do. I'm open for everything and I'm just excited to see where it takes me."

Iowa posts 1st Music City Bowl shutout, tops Kentucky 21-0

BY TERESA M. WALKER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Hawkeyes scored all their points in the second quarter to seize control, scoring twice 11 seconds apart early in the quarter.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Joe Labas threw for 139 yards and a touchdown in his first start and Iowa posted the first shutout in the Music City Bowl's 24-year history by beating Kentucky 21-0 Saturday.

Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz capped his 24th season by matching the late Joe Paterno for the most bowl victories among Big Ten coaches with his 10th.

This was the Hawkeyes' second shutout in a bowl game, following the 1996 Alamo Bowl, and the first by a Big Ten team since Penn State beat Texas A&M in the 1999 Alamo Bowl.

"I'm not the smartest guy in the world," Ferentz said. "One thing I've learned: If they can't score, then you got a shot that you're not going to lose. I know that. So if we could've written the script, it was perfect. Just really happy."

Iowa (8-5) got a bit of payback for ending last season by losing to Kentucky in the Citrus Bowl after a late comeback by the Wildcats.

The Hawkeyes' defense outscored its offense in this one, returning two interceptions for TDs in the second quarter.

The Hawkeyes finished the season with their fifth win in six games.

Kentucky (7-6) lost for the third time in four games, this time without quarterback Will Levis and running back Chris Rodriguez, as both opted out to prepare for the NFL draft. The loss ended the Wildcats' school-record streak of bowl wins at four.

"Both of us were down some players and a bit shorthanded, and they did what they had to do to win the football game," Kentucky coach Mark Stoops said.

The Hawkeyes scored all their points in the second quarter to seize control, scoring twice 11 seconds apart early in the quarter.

Taking his first snaps in a college game with Spencer Petras out with an upper-body injury, Labas hit Sam LaPorta with a short pass that the tight end took 27 yards, pushing through defenders. Labas then found Luke Lachey for a short pass, and the tight end finished off a 15-yard touchdown with 12:08 left.

"I was a little nervous at first, but to get those those (first three completions on the opening drive), it really helped a lot," Labas said.

Drew Stevens pushed the ensuing kickoff out of bounds, setting Kentucky up at the 35. Freshman Destin Wade, also making his collegiate debut, was picked off by Iowa safety Xavier Nwankpa, who went 52 yards for the 14-0 lead.

Bowl MVP Cooper DeJean picked off Wade on third-and-10 from the Kentucky 7 and easily ran 14 yards for a 21-0 lead.

"Our guys hustle when there is a turnover," Ferentz said. "They're trying to make it more than just, you know, getting possession."

The Hawkeyes didn't miss All-American defensive back Kaevon Merriweather, who opted out to prepare for the NFL draft. They posted their second shutout this season, holding Kentucky to 185 yards while sacking Wade four times and forcing the Wildcats to turn it over on downs twice.

THE TAKEAWAY

Iowa: The Hawkeyes must improve on offense, especially after losing All-American linebacker Jack Campbell.

This was the Hawkeyes' sixth game this season posting 222 yards of total offense or less.

Kentucky: Stoops made clear he wanted a look at the future in starting Wade, from nearby Spring Hill, even with Devin Leary arriving via the transfer portal. Wade finished with 98 yards passing and 29 yards rushing as Kentucky was shut out for the first time since Oct. 19, 2019, in a loss to Georgia.

The Wildcats are between offensive coordinators, and Iowa came in ranked sixth nationally, allowing just 14.4 points a game.

"He was put in a tough situation, so he will learn from it without a doubt," Stoops said of Wade.

CAMPBELL'S GRANDFATHER

Ferentz shared after the game that Campbell's grandfather died Friday night as the result of a traffic accident. William Smith, 76, was walking with family members when he may not have heard a warning not to cross a street. He was hit by a van and declared dead at Vanderbilt University Medical Center.

Iowa officials said Campbell's parents told him about his grandfather's death after the game, "so that Jack would have one last time to play with his Iowa Hawkeye teammates."

Campbell led Iowa with 10 tackles and had a sack and two tackles for loss.

Holmes scores 22, No. 4 Indiana women outlast Nebraska in OT

BY PHILLIP B. WILSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Give Nebraska credit, that's a really good basketball team. I have a feeling that a lot of our Big Ten games this year are going to be like that. There's just a lot of talent, from top to bottom. Night in and night out, if you're not ready to play, you're always at risk of coming up short."

— Teri Moren
I U women's coch

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Mackenzie Holmes scored 22 points, Sydney Parrish sank the go-ahead 3-pointer and No. 4 Indiana bounced back from its first loss with a 74-62 overtime victory over Nebraska on Sunday.

Indiana outscored Nebraska 12-0 in OT after the Cornhuskers' Jaz Shelley missed a potential game-winning jumper in the final seconds of regulation.

"We're built for moments like those," Holmes said. "We always have been. We take a lot of pride in being the better-conditioned team when the game gets going down the stretch in the fourth quarter and even overtime situations. We take a lot of pride in being able to shift into that extra gear."

Holmes made 8 of 14 shots, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked five shots for the Hoosiers (13-1, 3-1 Big Ten), who outlasted the Cornhuskers (10-5, 2-2) in a game that was tied 13 times and had 17 lead changes.

"Give Nebraska credit, that's a really good basketball team," Indiana coach Teri Moren said. "I have a feeling that a lot of our Big Ten games this year are going to be like that. There's just a lot of talent, from top to bottom. Night in and night out, if you're not ready to play, you're always at risk of coming up short."

The final lead change came with 3:57 remaining, when Parrish hit her third 3. The rest of the Hoosiers were 1 for 13 from beyond the arc.

"As a shooter, you go through slumps," Parrish said. "In the fourth quarter, I airballed one and Coach Moren said to just keep shooting, keep shooting. Knowing she has that confidence in me gives me the confidence to keep shooting the ball."

Parrish finished with 16 points. Chloe Moore-McNeil added 13, including 7 of 8 at the free-throw line.

Isabelle Bourne led the Cornhuskers with 15 points.

"We said it was going to take 40 minutes," Nebraska coach Amy Williams said. "It actually was going to take 45 minutes, and that last 5 minutes we didn't keep our same defensive focus that we had up to that point."

The Cornhuskers also didn't get to the line. Indiana made 24 of 30 free throws. Nebraska sank just 5 of 9.

"Obviously today, I thought the game was lost at the free throw line," Williams said.

Both teams were coming off losses — Indiana committed 21 turnovers in an 83-78 loss at Michigan State on Thursday while Nebraska was blown out 76-59 at home by No. 14 Michigan on Wednesday. The Hoosiers took better care of the basketball this time, having just 13 turnovers, but aside from Holmes they struggled to make shots.

"We are four games into the Big Ten and we can't take anyone for granted," Holmes said. "Every win is important, especially with the strength of the conference this year. We just have to work a little bit harder because we know every night is going to be a battle."

Nebraska led by as many as seven points early. Indiana didn't take its first lead until 4:39 remained in the second quarter.

The Hoosiers led 31-30 at halftime despite shooting just 33% and missing 8 of 9 3-point shots.

"We didn't shoot it well, I know that," Moren said. "But we hit the shots we needed to hit in overtime."

BIG PICTURE

Nebraska: There's not a senior on the roster, but the Cornhuskers play hard and showed in this tough road test that they have the talent to return to the NCAA Tournament.

Indiana: This team won't be whole until All-American senior Grace Berger returns from a right knee injury, but the eight games without her have forced role players to do more, which ideally benefits the Hoosiers down the road.

UP NEXT

Nebraska: Visits Rutgers on Saturday.

Indiana: Visits Northwestern next Sunday.

No. 1 Georgia rallies to beat No. 4 Ohio State 42-41 in semi

BY CHARLES ODUM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Kirby Smart will ask his Georgia players to execute better when the Bulldogs play for second straight national championship next week, but the coach knows he can't ask his players to be more resilient.

Georgia remains undefeated because the Bulldogs never gave up while rallying from two-touchdown deficits in each half for a thrilling College Football Playoff semifinal 42-41 victory over Ohio State that ended early Sunday.

Stetson Bennett capped No. 1 Georgia's final comeback with a 10-yard, last-minute scoring pass to Adonai Mitchell for the Peach Bowl victory over No. 4 Ohio State. The win gives the Bulldogs a shot at their second straight national title.

"Our guys are extremely resilient," Smart said. "... I had no doubt our team would come out fighting."

Georgia (14-0) will play No. 3 TCU (13-1), which beat No. 2 Michigan 51-45 in the Fiesta Bowl semifinal, on Jan. 9 for the national championship.

The Bulldogs, who won their first national title since 1980 last season, will play for the first back-to-back championships in school history.

Ohio State led 21-7 in the first half and 38-24 in the fourth quarter.

"If we want any chance of winning the national championship, we've got to play a lot better football than we played tonight, but we've got to keep our resilience," Smart said.

The final comeback held just after midnight Sunday when Noah Ruggles' 50-yard field goal attempt for Ohio State with three seconds remaining sailed wide left, setting off a celebration on the Georgia sideline.

"That probably was the most fun game I've ever played in my life," said Ohio State quarterback C.J. Stroud, who threw four touchdown passes. "It just sucks it comes down like that."

Ohio State (11-2) bemoaned its inability to protect the two-touchdown lead in the final quarter.

"If we're going to win these games we can't give up those big, explosive plays," Ohio State coach Ryan Day said.

Bennett's 76-yard scoring pass to Arian Smith, followed by Bennett's pass to Ladd McConkey on the 2-point play, cut it to 38-35.

Ruggles' 48-yard field goal gave the Buckeyes a 41-35 lead, leaving only 2:36 for Bennett and Georgia's offense.

"I looked around and there were just a bunch of determined strong stares from all the dudes," Bennett said of the huddle before the drive. "It gave me confidence."

Bennett's go-ahead scoring pass to Mitchell with 54 seconds remaining, Stroud led the Buckeyes back with a 27-yard run to the Georgia 31. The missed field goal set off the Georgia celebration that left Bennett in tears.

"That was a good game," Bennett said. "These stats are pretty much dead even across the board. Yeah, that one was special."

No. 3 TCU upsets No. 2 Michigan 51-45 in wild CFP semifinal

BY RALPH D. RUSSO
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

GLENDALE, Ariz. — TCU's wild ride has one more stop.

The Horned Frogs are headed to Sofi Stadium in Inglewood, California, about 10 miles from Hollywood, just about the perfect place to end a storybook season for the most improbable College Football Playoff team.

Max Duggan accounted for four touchdowns, TCU returned two interceptions for scores and the third-ranked Horned Frogs withstood a frenetic second-half surge by No. 2 Michigan to win the Fiesta Bowl semifinal 51-45 on Saturday night.

TCU (13-1) will face No. 1 Georgia (14-0), a 42-41 semifinal winner over No. 4 Ohio State, on Jan. 9 for the national championship.

Coming off a losing 2021 season and picked to finish seventh in the Big 12 in Sonny Dykes' first year as coach, the Horned Frogs will now play for the program's first national championship since 1938.

"They just played really tough football, hard-nosed football. Believed in each other, believed in their teammates, and just found a way to overcome and persevere," Dykes said. "It's kind of what we've done all year. We did it tonight. That's who we are."

It took the Frogs a month to get ranked this season, and they were doubted almost every step on the way their first playoff appearance.

"At some point, you just kind of quit listening to what everybody says," Dykes said.

Duggan and the Frogs will inevitably be underdogs in the title game — again. That didn't matter much against Michigan (13-1) as they took it to the big, bad Big Ten champions and turned the Fiesta Bowl into circa-2010, Big 12-style scorefest.

"We heard all week how they were going to out-physical us," TCU linebacker Dee Winters said.

It was the highest-scoring Fiesta Bowl ever and the second highest-scoring CFP game behind Georgia's 54-48 Rose Bowl victory against Oklahoma on Jan. 1, 2018.

Maybe it was fitting.

TCU, the little private school from Forth Worth, Texas, that was left out of the Big 12 when it first formed in the mid-1990s, became the first team from the conference to win a CFP game and will be the first to play for a national title since Texas in 2009.

This one was 34-16 after Winters' 29-yard pick-6 with 2:46 left in the third quarter. The Hypnotoads, a nickname borrowed for the animated TV show "Futurama," and their purple-clad fans were drowning out the Michigan supporters at State Farm Stadium, sensing the dream was still alive.

Of course, nothing comes easy for these Frogs. During their unbeaten regular season, they won seven straight games by 10 points or fewer.
